

Encoding Capital: The Political Economy Of The Human Genome Project

Power of a Theory = $\frac{\text{Number of things it explains}}{\text{Number of things it needs to assume}}$

By this measure, Darwin discovered what may be the most powerful theory in all of science:-

Power of Darwin's Theory = $\frac{\text{A billion well-adapted species}}{\text{Genes exist}}$

... for mutation, competition, selection and evolution follow inevitably from the existence of high fidelity replicators

Richard Dawkins
